Johnson Urges Action At Armory Dedication

City Shines As Dedication Of Armory Clicks

Cameron out did itself Wednesday in hosting state and national luminaries at the dedication of its $110,000 Guard Armory.

But the story was best told by the reception given Sen. Lyndon Johnson, U. S. Senate majority leader and the throng of dignitaries who helped fill the auditorium to near capacity.

The program clicked with almost military percision even though Johnson stayed over his itinerary's planned one hour and five minute stop. It appeared that Johnson himself sensed the importance of the dedication when he viewed the preparations.

Band Plays Concert

Yoe High School's 100 - piece concert band presented a selection of numbers and the National Anthem prior to the arrival of the Johnson party.

Johnson, Congressman W. R. Poage and the airport greeting party entered the crowded armory just after the invocation by Chaplain Bernard C. Goertz.

MC E. A. Perrin welcomed the crowd of hundreds of Cameron and county school students, Central Texas leaders and Cameron citizens prior to introducing Chamber President Milton Schiller.

Schiller cited the preparation recognition Cameron had received in the dedication program. And he welcomed the host of visitors.

Lt. Col. Olin F. Brewster, commander of the Third Tank Battalion, Temple, introduced special guests. He was followed by Capt. James T. Terry, commander of Company C, who expressed his appreciation to everyone who helped make the new armory possible.

County Judge Don G. Humble introduced Poage who was laudatory in introducing Johnson. The 11th District congressman introduced the aspiring Democratic presidential candidate "as the man who has played as important a part

Solon Blasts Complacency, Leadership

Sen. Lyndon Johnson urged a futuristic liberal program of building American resources in dedication remarks at Cameron's National Guard official opening Wednesday.

Warming up on reflections of the needs for U. S. preparedness, he decried "this nation's existing static complacencey' and urged the need for "somebody who will say: 'let's go.'"

The Democratic Senate majority leader was introduced by Rep. W. R. Poage, Waco, who announced endorsement of the Texas Democrat's bid for a Democratic presidential nomination.

Johnson harked back to the New Deal days of Franklin Delano Roosevelt in comparing today's need for leadership and the nation's status when Roosevelt took the oath of president with the now famous "we have nothing to fear but fear itself."

No Fears For U. S.

"I'm not fearful for the United States," Johnson asserted, "as long as we have young unshaven heroes like those who carried the U. S. flag through World War II."

"But we must develop our country and its resources," he continued. "We must provide imagination and opportunity. We've got it and we're going to keep it."

In his first reference to the presidential race next year, Johnson said next year "we're not going to turn our backs on preparedness and on looking ahead."

"We should be prudent progressives," he emphasized, "with our eyes on the stars and our feet on the ground."

"Then we can have and produce the economic growth worthy of us."

"What we need in Washington is another Jesse Jones (a former president of the Texas Republic) with the guts and determination to look and work ahead," the dynamic Johnson heralded.

Earlier in his talk he referred to the lack of new national building programs, which, he said, are sorely needed. "We didn't win World War II by sitting in rocking chairs."

In dedicatory remarks, he said: "Here in Cameron today we are renewing our faith in the strength of the citizen soldier. We are dedicating a building to the use of those who believe in the aims and aspirations in the National Guard ....."

Need Trained Tecnicians

"Today, we need not only a trained corps of professional soldiers, but a highly trained corps of professional technicians wearing our country's uniform."

Ol' 100

With F. M. L.

If any Milam County teen - ager is in search of a real live pen pal, we can furnish a name and address of one erstwhile young lady wishing to exchange letters and pictures of Elvis Presley.

This is a new service for Ol' 100, playing middle man in a teen-age letter writing affair, but this note to us requesting a pen - pal has a different turn.

It may be this young lady is a shut - in herself, since she wishes to exchange Presley pictures or mail with a shut - in.

We note an item clipped from the St. Joseph (Texas) Tribune that is of interest since the cold weather snap.

QUOTE: People may be blowing their tops over the hot weather of the past few days, but other things have been popping too. An explosion that sounded like the house was blowing up sent the Bob Steadham family to their feet the otherday. Jane's basketball, swelled by the heat, burst wide open. A bottle of pop exploded in Charles Thompson's car, sending glass flying all over the inside of the vehicle.

But the most unusual incident occurred when the heater radiator on the Chell Jackson automobile froze and burst. He had drained the anti - freeze from the vehicle and filled it up with fresh water. Instead of cooling his motor, as he had expected the fresh water to do, his air-conditioning unit, located near the heater coils, froze the water in the heater with the same results of a cold winter spell.

He knows now to keep anti - freeze in the vehicle the year 'round ..... END OF QUOTE.

Poage To Address Classroom Teachers

Rep. W. R. (Bob) Poage, congressman of the 11th Congressional District, will speak to members of the Cameron Classroom Teachers Association Monday night.

The November meeting of the group will be held in the Ben Milam Cafetorium 7:30 p. m. Monday. Officials extended a public invitation to attend.

Poage has just returned from a tour of Russia, which he discussed before Rockdale Rotarians last week. He introduced Sen. Lyndon Johnson Wednesday at the National Guard Armory dedication in Cameron.

'Witches, Goblins'

Downtown Parade Due Halloween

A Halloween parade about 6:30 p. m. Saturday will kickoff the annual witch and goblin hunt in Cameron.

Youngsters from throughout Cameron, decked out in their "worst" costumes, will try to scare the daylights out of each other in the parade through downtown Cameron and trick and treat for pennies for the United Nations Children's Fund Halloween program from 7 to 8 p. m.

Age limit on the costume parade is from 1 through 12 officials said. They will be directed through the Cameron parade by Marshall Terry, Cameron's meter patrolman.

The group will meet at the First Methodist Church's Fellowship Hall before the parade. Participating children will tour in the parade, ring Cameron doorbells for pennies for UNICEF instead of traditional trick and treating and turn over proceeds to the UNICEF sponsoring group, Cameron Council of Church Women.

Participating churches in the first UNICEF Halloween program include Methodist, Presbyterian, Christian and Episcopal Churches.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack DuBois are in charge of parade arrangements

A Halloween party will be included in the pre-parade fun at Fellowship Hall, officials said.

The youngsters will canvass neighborhoods in small groups, escorted by young adults who are also volunteering their time.

Officials said each penny collected by the Trick or Treaters wearing the black and oragne UNICEF tag Saturday night can mean five glasses of milk for a needy child overseas or the vaccine to protect him from tuberculosis.

Social Benefits Pay $937,704 Yearly In Milam

Old - age, survivors, and disability insurance monthly benefits were being paid in Milam County at the rate of $937,704 a year, since Februrary, according to Maurice M. Chastain, manager of the Temple Social Security district office.

"This is an increase of about 21 per cent over last year," Chastain said. "Part of the increase is explained by the 7 percent raise in benefit amounts authorized by Congress last year, but the main factor in the increase is due to the increased number of beneficiaries."

The long - term growth of the aged population and of the proportion of the aged population eligible for benefits are important factors in the continuing increase in the number of beneficiaries, Chastain added.

In the Temple district, comprised of the counties of Bell, Milam, Coryell, Lampassas, San Saba, Mills and Hamilton, there are approximately 11,000 beneficiaries receiving monthly payments at the rate of about $7,000,000 a year, according to Chastain.

Payments to retired workers with no dependents averaged $67.50 in Februrary, and to a retired couple, $119.40 a month, Chastain said. The average for a widow with two children was $165.00. The maximum for a family is $254.00. The average disability benefit is $85.00.

Leaders Greet Johnson

By Frank M. Luecke

Central Texas political, business dignitaries and working press were on hand in unprecedented numbers Wednesday for Sen. Lyndon Johnson's dedication of the Cameron Armory.

Heading the political luminaries on hand at Cameron Airport was 11th Dist. Congressman W. R. (Bob) Poage who broke a previous engagement to introduce the senior Texas Senator in Cameron.

Official greeters for the Johnson party were Mayor Bassel Wilson, businessman Fred Blake and attorney Emory B. Camp.

When the tall, sunburned Johnson stepped from the twin - motored Beechcraft, flashbulbs popped and cameras whirred in the biggest show of area press coverage in recent city history. Reporters from Waco, Temple, Dallas and Cameron were in the press gallery at the Armory.

An interesting aside at the Cameron Airport was a lineup of three Army and Guard planes that had preceded Johnson. One plane bore Brig. Gen. John L. Thompson, commander of the 49th Division, of which Cameron's Company C is a part.

Red carnations were pinned on Johnson and Poage at the airfield while Johnson shook hands around the group of some 50 business, civic and political personages.

In the crowd also was Johnson's old school principal at Cotulla, W. T. Donohue, now retired, who is also father of Mrs. Milton Schiller, wife of the Cameron Chamber of Commerce president.

Johnson and his entourage were wisked to the National Guard under a police escort of the Cameron Police Dept., State Highway

I Give You Texas

By Boyce House

One of the wittiest men I ever knew was Charley Garibaldi, desk sergeant at the police station in Memphis when I entered newspaper work. Not only was he witty but he could think of something clever to say at the time and not half an hour later, as is the case with most of us. His humor gained much of its effect from the grace and ease with which it was delivered, much in the manner of a polished actor.

I had been working on the "police run" only a few days when a young man was brought in on a reckless driving charge. We recognized each other as schoolmates. Soon afterward, another acquaintance of high school days was brought in on a speeding charge. After he had posted bond and left, Garibaldi demanded, "Was that a school for crime that you attended?" -- which amused the officers and, of course, embarassed the young and serious reporter.

A youth about six feet, three was brought in, one night. The sergeant asked, "How old are you?" "Sixteen", was the answer. Garibaldi declared, "You ought to be a lot of help to your parents when you grow up."

The desk sergeant had a remarkable memory. When I returned to headquarters after having been out for supper and would ask if anything had happened, he would give a reply that was strictly accurate in every detail, and without referring to any notes:

"Jerry Blaine, 27 traveling salesman, 2300 Light Avenue, was struck by an automobile as he was crossing the street at Union and Third at 8:15 o'clock tonight. The driver, Henry Hammers of 1102 Gusty Lane, was released on $500 bond on a careless driving charge.

"Blaine was taken in a Shannin ambulance to the City - County Hospital where he is expected to recover in spite of the treatment."

Teachers Attend Science Workshop

About 20 Milam County elementary teachers attended a Science Workshop at Ben Milam School, Cameron, October 21.

Mrs. Maurine LeBeau, elementary science consultant for the C. C. Heath Company, publisher of elementary science textbooks, conducted the workshop. She was introduced by H. D. Maxwell, county superintendent of schools and workshop organizers.

Leon Brady, Cameron elementary principal, welcomed the group.

Mrs. LeBeau said aims of the workshop were to stimulate professional growth and educational improvement and instruction in the science program.

She recommended that a science program is workable when sufficient teaching materials and equipment are available. She urged instructional practices to include a variety of student activities such as demonstrations, collections, experiments, tours and notebooks.

Mrs. LaBeau also explained the use of numerous devices to maintain student interest in science and she displayed a number of teaching materials used in science instruction.

In her discussion, she formulated four essentials for an active science program:

1) To do many experiments practical for grades 1 - 6.

2) To acquire basic knowledge of what effective elementary science program should be.

3) To set up and maintain a science interest area.

4) To deal with science as subject with practical value.

The science teacher examined a number of science library texts. They ate lunch as guests of Cameron Schools in Ben Milam Cafetorium.

Teachers from nine county schools attended.

Mrs. Hanel, Annette Make Jet Journey

Many Supplements Of Proteins For Cattle

COLLEGE STATION — Cattlemen have man choices available when buying protein supplements for their cattle. U. D. Thompson, extension animal husbandman, says they are apailable with varying protein content and in different forms, such as blocks, cubes, cakes, pellets, dry and liquid bulk. The form makes little to no difference in cattle performance.

There are, however, some factors which should receive attention points out Thompson. Labor required for feeding the supplement is an important consideration and less is needed with some of the forms available. The cost per pound of protein should be considered. Cattle do well on a single source protein, says the specialist. Their protein requirements are available in the protein from cottonseed, soybean or linseed. Consideration should be given to the cost per pound instead of how many different sources of protein are in the supplement, advises Thompson.

Farmers Urged To Destroy Cotton Stalks

By J. D. Moore
County Agent

Cotton Stalk Destruction

Although the mandatory cotton stalk destruction deadline for Milam County is November 30, farmers are urged to destroy the stalks and to plow under the debris as early as possible for more effective boll weevil and pink boll worm control.

While many farmers have already destroyed their stalks and plowed crop debris, the operations are much more effective if they are practiced by all farmers over a wide area. Each farmer is urged to join his neighbor in these methods of reducing the number of boll weevils and pink boll worms which will survive to infest next year's cotton crop.

According to J. M. Monk, field supervisor for the Plant Pest Control Division, the number of pink boilworms per bale of lint this year has been even lower than in preceding seasons. The success of lowering the pink boll worm count is due largely to the farmers response in complying with the program.

Cattle Are Too High To Lose

Watch for Prussic acid poisoning after frost. Johnsongrass or sorghum after a frost is sometimes extremely high in prussic acid content and is very dangerous to livestock, warns Dr. C. M. Patterson, extension veterinarian.

Certain chemical changes sometimes occur in the plant and it develops a content of prussic acid, or hydrocyanic acid when wilted by frost or drouth. The poison acts quickly and can kill an animal within a short time after the damaged plant is eaten.

An appearance of nervousness, difficult breathing and difficulty in standing are symptoms of the poisoning. Whether apoisonedanto it. Treatment invilves injectimal can be saved depends upon how quickly a veterinarian can get ti it. Treatment involves injecting antidotes directly into the blood stream.

Young plants will develop more prussic acid after frost or drouth than those approaching maturity. Their leaves will contain from 3 to 25 times more acid than leaves of plants in the boot stage. Also, upper, younger leaves will contain more acid than lower leaves.

Use caution in grazing frosted Johnsongrass or sorghum before it is completely dry. If Johnsongrass or sorghum is ready to cut for hay before a frost, it may be cut the first day after the frost, if care is taken to see that it is completely cured before baling.

It may also be used for silage. Generally, enough prussic acid is lost in gaseous form during the ensiling process and as the silage is removed and fed to make it safe for livestock. However, animals shouldn't be allowed to self-feed from a silo filled with frosted sudan or sorghum. If the silage is questionable it should be chemically tested by a local veterinarian or by letting one or two inferior animals eat it.

FIRST FALCON — Mr. and Mrs. David Sherman, Rt. 3, Cameron, accept the keys to a new Ford Falcon, first of the small cars sold by the Hefley-Stedman Motor Co. Making the presentation is C. B. Jenness, sales manager for the agency.

High Nitrogen Increases Hazards For Bermudagrass

COLLEGE STATION — High nitrogen levels without adequate potash will, over a period of years, increase the hazards of winterkill of Coastal Bermudagrass and small grains, says John Box, agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

In tests conducted by scientists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the Georgia Agricultural Experiment Station, Box says it was found that winterkill of Coastal was most severe on plots which had received combinations of high nitrogen fertilization and low potassium for the past three years.

As the amounts of nitrogen increased, winterkill caused progressively more damage, especially on plots receiving no potash. High rates of nitrogen stimuate vegetative growth with the subsequent drain of natural phosphorus and potassium even on soils which are relatively high in these nutrients, points out Box.

Potash is effective in hardening the plant material, thus counteracting the effects of the nitrogen and making the crop more hardy. These Georgia tests, says the agronomist, point up the need for keeping plant nutrients in balance.

Box says that soil tests show that heavy applications of nitrogen will result in rapid removal of potassium from the soil and in turn increase the hazards of winterkill.

Application Of Lime Important To Soil Crops

COLLEGE STATION — The application of limestone is a practice which may need repeating, with frequency of application depending on several factors, according to Dr. W. F. Bennett, extension soil chemist. For example, soil texture is a very important item. More frequent lime applications are required to maintain proper acidity levels in sandy soils than in clay soils. On extremely sandy soils, it might be desirable to apply a small amount of limestone every year.

On sandy loam soils with fine textured subsoil, one ton per acre every two to three years should be sufficient, however, on sandy loam soils with a sandy subsoil, one ton per acre every two years probably would be needed. On an acid clay type soil, two to four tons per acre might be needed only every three to four years, notes the chemist.

The type of crop which is grown will also influence the frequency with which lime is applied. Lime loving crops should probably have limestone applied more often than non-leguminous crops.

Limestone should be considered as a long term investment. It is one which will return dividends over a period if years. Keep in mind that lime has a value for subsequent crops in addition to its beneficial effect on the crop grown immediately following this application.

Bennett emphasizes, however, that you should not guess as to how often to apply lime. The simplest and most reliable method to determine lime requirement for your soil is by having a soil test made every two to three years.

A dead person may vote, legally, if he mails an absentee ballot and then dies before election day.

Research Sheds New Light On Cattle Bloat

According to their research, he adds bloat runs in the family.

The researchers kept records on 250 beef calves in the course of the study. Chronic bloat showed up in 7 out of 13 offspring of "bloater" bulls mattd to "bloater" cows or to cows closely related to the bulls. Of the regular breeding herd, less than four percent bloated occasionally.

Bloat is caused by a build-up of gas during feed digestion in the large storage reservoir in a network of four stomachs in cattle. Chronic bloating stunts growth and is a major cause of death losses in both beef and dairy cattle.

Patterson also reports that bloat occurs most often when animals are on high - quality feed such as good alfalfa hay supplemented with barley. Test animals received a pelleted ration of two parts half-inch cut alfalfa hay to one part grain mix.

Buckholts Science Dept. Adds Course

This year the Buckholts High School Science department has added a new course to the three they have previously taught. BHS has previously taught taught general science, biology, and physics. This year chemistry has been added. A chemistry laboratory has been built, which is supplied with gas, electricity and water. It was built by some of the FFA boys and Gene Beyer. The boys are Dwight Fuchs, Bobby Malivets, John Ruzicka, Pat Wallas, Johnny Skehak, Felip Lipez, Clifford Chevalier, Emmanuel Fritz, Auther Inge Jr., Morris Jones Jr., Douglas Kleypas, John Zajicek and equipment has been ordered to replace inadaquate equipment. This new subject has advanced the science department very much.

Biology and chemistry are being taught by Roy C. Hensley. In biology the students are required to collect wild flowers and insects. Classes will also dissect a number of small animals and mount a frog skeleton during the school term. The biology class has many excellent specimens of various snakes, fish, and frogs.

The chemistry class has thus far completed three experiments and will do many more when the additional supplies are received. The chemistry room has four work tables with a shelf for chemicals in the center of each with a dual electrical outlet and gas outlets. In the center of the room is a lead sink for the convenience of the students.

Halloween Tradition To End Saturday . . At Smith Household

There won't be any Halloween at 906 N. Jackson this year and about 500 kids will be disappointed.

For that is the address of Oxsheer Smith, Cameron banker, who for the past 20 years or more has met the trick 'n treating youngsters of Cameron more than halfway.

Each Halloween, Smith, his housekeeper and some of his family have costumed themselves and the house for the throng of kids that come knocking on the door.

The children are admitted, awe stricken by the scene of a witch over a boiling cauldron or a goblin in a dimly lighted room.

But that is no more. Smith, accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Vernon McIntyre, of Alpine, left for the American Bankers Convention Sunday, in Miami, Fla.

"Halloween is made for children," Smith said, wryly smiling. "We had 432 children "trick or treat" us last October 31.

They filed in, he recalled, and behaved perfectly.

One lad, Smith said, last year was noted going through the treat line more than once.

Boy: "You're wrong. This is my fourth time!"

And that was part of the Halloween tradition of Cameron, to be broken Saturday night for the first time in years.

in our recent history as any living American."

Poage Introduces Speaker

"I hope, " Poage continued, "he will continue to serve this country in the executive role as he has in legislative leadership."

Then Johnson assumed the podium to make a 30 - minute dedication speech that included an appeal for liberal leadership with what could be basic campaign issue for his yet unannounced candidacy.

Perrin followed the Senator's speech with an expression of appreciation. The senator left early to emplane for Bryan and a noon before him to make a speaking date at Marlin.

Johnson —

Johnson said Khrushchev proved by word and action that Soviet Russia has an inferiority complex about not having the way of life enjoyed in America.

"Khrushchev told us that we (Russia) are always treated like poor relations," Johnson said "and we have what they want."

He cited Khrushchev's threat then to bury us, made before his historic visit.

"The U. S. is outnumbered 18 to 1 by people who want what we have," he noted.

He attacked the philosphy of "no new starts" of the present administration in saying that we have the untapped resources to raise Texas' annual income alone from $20 billions to $85 billions.

Armory Is Example

Johnson ended his speech on a calmer note in pointing out that what can be done when "they say it couldn't be done."

It was a fiery speech that was one of Johnson's four of the day. He flew on to Bryan from Cameron and was scheduled for appearances at Sulphur Springs and Gladewater.

Two weeks ago Texas' Sam Rayburn, speaker of the U. S. House of Representatives, announced Johnson's candidacy though to date Johnson himself has not committed.

He turned from prepared remarks about the dedication after the first five minutes and launched into his discussion of leadership needs of the country.

Stage Load of Dignitaries

Waiting on the stage at the Armory where ceremonies already had begun were another contingent of Cameron and area leaders. They included Chamber President Schiller, MC E. A. Perrin, Gen. Johnson, Third Tank Battalion Co., Lt. Col. Olin F. Brewster, Company C CO, Capt. James T. Terry, Col. Wylie Stims, Waco, County Judge Don G. Humble, Charlie Blake, Hearne, The Rev. D. C. James, Third Battalion Chaplain Bernard C. Goertz, Richard Williams, Chamber vice - president, Dr. S. H. Richardson, Chamber vice - president and Hilliard Thomas, past Chamber president.

In the audience were business, civic and political leaders from Cameron, Taylor, Belton, and many communities of Milam County. They included Belton Mayor Roy Sandeford, Temple C of C Manager Frank Jones, Temple Publisher Frank Mayborn among others.

The hall was packed with about 1,000 people while outside three Patton tanks guarded the entrance to Cameron's new $110,000 structure. Guardsmen in parade dress directed traffic along with members of the Cameron Police Dept.

About 300 of the Central Texas and Cameron leaders met at a barbecue hosted by the Cameron Chamber following the dedication and a tour of the Armory.

Guardsmen Review Armory History

By Lloyd Albertson

When the new National Guard Armory here was formally dedicated Wednesday morning with an overflow crowd and military and civilian dignitaries, including U. S. Senator Lyndon Johnson, some of the long - time members of Company C who remember back to the Guard unit's beginnings probably found a few things about the scene a little hard to believe.

One of them, undoubtedly, was the brand new building itself. An armory costing $110,000? Back in 1947, when the Guard unit was just getting organized, that would have sounded slightly fantastic.

The plans in 1947 included the future construction of an armory all right. Cost - about $14,500. Probably a quonset hut.

The local Guard unit -- it was Battery C, 239th Field Artillery Battalion when activated in 1947 -- had its first Armory, however, in part of the old Grammer School building on Third Street. The structure had been condemned years before for school purposes, but several of the class rooms were repaired to serve the Guardsmen.

Grammer School Armory

It served them for almost three years. Although some Guardsmen, remembering those early days and recalling how the tread of combat boots on the stairs made them rattle and shake, wonder how it did.

Capt. Rudolph Michalka, a World War II veteran, had started the unit with the minimum number of officers and men required by National Guard regulations - and hoped more enlistments would come in. What hadn't been expected was that Guardsmen already in the unit would move away from this area to get jobs in other cities and be lost. So while recruiting campaigns brought in new members, the unit found itself for a while making progress after the fashion of the unfornutate cat that fell in a well and slid back three feet every time it managed to climb up two.

The tide turned early in 1949. An "all out" recruiting drive succeeded in adding a good number of members. The unit was converted from Field Artillery to Anti-aircraft Artillery and became Battery C, 649th AAA Battalion.

And with the Chamber of Commerce spearheading the drive, a move was started for subscriptions from local business firms and citizens to buy a 20 acre tract on the outskirts of Cameron as an Armory site.

This was necessary because, while the State and Federal government would appropriate funds to construct the building, they had no funds to purchase the land. accordingly, this had to be donated.

C of C Community Action

With the aid of volunteer collection teams, the Chamber of Commerce and other public spirited citizens put the drive over, collected the necessary funds to purchase the 20 acre tract, and in the spring of 1949 turned it over to the Texas Armory Board.

And shortly thereafter construction was started on a reinforced concrete and tile vehicle storage building which the Guardsmen could use until funds could be appropriated for construction of an Armory.

The members of Battery C began to believe that at last they were over the hump. The appropriation for the Armory was just a matter of a little time.

What couldn't be foreseen, of course, was the start of the Korean War, which made the chance of any appropriation out of the question for its duration and for a couple of years afterwards.

Rumors in 1956

Rumors that the long postponed building might be on the architect's drawing boards began in 1956. Even some of the blueprints were received here by Capt. James T. Terry who, in 1953, had succeeded Capt. Michalka as commanding officer. But it wasn't until the next year that they became more than rumors.

Suddenly in 1957 the Armory Board in Austin asked for bids on an armory building. But there was a delay and it advertised again for bids in 1958.

Coffield Construction Company of Rockdale was awarded the contract on its low bid of approximately $110,000 and completed the building in June.

So maybe a Guardsman who, Wednesday morning, happened to remember back to the Guard unit's beginnings here, can be pardoned if he found some things a little hard to believe -- and if he took a second look at the brand new Armory to make sure it wasn't a mirage.

STARK FOR A TD — Belton's Richard Stark (44) takes off around end for a 19 yard gain and a touchdown to climax a 70 yard drive. Coming in to bring him down about a yard late is Yoeman David Barkemeyer (55).

Two Cameron boys have taken high honors at the Acadamy Dragstrip in Little River, Texas, the past two weeks.

Week before last Yoe High School senior Martin Mitchan took first place and a trophy home winning R—Stock with his 1950 Oldsmobile. Mitchan clocked 18.3 in the quarter mile run in the automatic transmission Olds.

Last week Cecil Arnold earned a trophy by taking first place in the Automatic Transmission class. Arnold, driving a 1958 Pontiac Star Chief, timed 17 seconds flat.

—VOS—

The Yoemen dropped their 8th game last week to the Rosebud Panthers. Quarterback Carroll Fikes once again found a pass receiver. Bobby Griswold hauled in 3 passes for a good number of yards. Griswold and Fikes put on a similar performance in an earlier Yoe battle.

—VOS—

Cameon's new set of plays that came into reality a month ago have proved to be fairly successful. The plays put the quarterback in motion using Chris Gay to set up a T formation, call the signals and then float to the right or left, the ball being centered to one of the backfield men.

—VOS—

Week before last the Yoemen were relived to hear that Belton halfback, Alton Moy wouldn't see action against Cameron.

Their sighs of relief soon faltered however when Moy's replacement, a 145 - pound sophomore by the name of Cox, ran wild against the Yoemen, garnering 113 yards on the ground.

Recent visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Schiller were Mr. and Mrs. George Schiller of San Antonio.

Other decorations in the luncheon room were pumpkins containing pyrrocanthia and arrangements of chrysanthemums.

Following the luncheon Mrs. Pearson introduced Mrs. Sam Jones of Waco who gave a short talk on holiday and party decorating and displayed party tables for Thanksgiving and Christmas entertaining which had been arranged by the Party Shop of Waco.

Rosebud Blanks Yoemen In District Game Test, 26-0

The Panthers with a full house backfield that wouldn't stop garnered for 10 points in the first quarter, 8 in the 2nd, 0 in the 3rd and 8 in the last.

Jack McCollum, Panther halfback led the victors on the ground picking up 175 yards in 23 carries averaging over 7 yards each dash.

Rosebud caught Carroll Fikes behind their goal early in the first quarter on a punt return. The setback gave the Panthers 2 points.

Rosebud took the ball over a few plays later and drove to paydirt from 52 yards out. The drive was started by a 9 yard pass completion, urged on by a 21 yard run by McCollum and climaxed on a quarterback sneak through the right by McAtee for the 6 points.

The extra points pass from McAtee to Swanzy was good making the score 10 - 0. That ended the first quarter scoring.

Rosebud didn't come back again until the latter portion of the second quarter on a 33 yard run.

Rosebud recovered a Cameron fumble on the 41 and drove to put the ball on Cameron's 33 yardline. McCollum hit leftend with a play that was good for 33 yards and a touchdown.

The extra point attempt was good on a pass from McAtee to Swanzy. Rosebud now led the Yoe 18 - 0.

The third quarter marked a steady exchange of the ball. Cameron never got any closer than the 46 yardline with the ball and Rosebud carried as far as the 34 on Cameron's side.

The Panthers clawed their way in again on a 36 yard pass to David Beach from McAtee. The extra points were good on a pass from McAtee to Swanzy seconds before the game ended.

Myth Pervades Air . . .

The Central Texas office of the US Social Security Administration released some figures on monthly benefits to Milam Countians that should open some eyes . . . if not burst some blood vessels.

"As of February, 1959,, old-age, survivors and disability insurance monthly benefits were being paid in Milam County at the rate of $937,704.00 a year."

The nature of its derivation concerns us. The report goes on to say that $7 million goes to 11,000 beneficiaries in Milam, Bell, Coryell, Lampasas, San Saba, Mills and Hamilton Counties.

We recall that about 13 percent of Milam County and Cameron residents are over 65, the group that draws the majority of these monies in social security and old-age benefits.

In that seven-county area, by the 1950 census, live about 150,000 people (though there are probably more with Bell County's increases). It would suggest that approximately 10 percent of this area's population is in part or totally dependent upon the US government.

But a 21 percent increase in payments over the same area served last year is also reported, including a congressionally authorized 7 percent raise last year. Social security officials say the main factor in the increase is due to increased number of beneficiaries.

The nemesis in this report is that in county or nation, the number of beneficiaries is going to continue to grow. And in areas such as Central Texas where some counties steadily lose population, the social outpouring ultimately will outweigh the productivity of various given counties.

This is not true in Milam County where the population is holding its own. But population figures of five of the seven counties in question are barely holding on or losing.

Another interesting figure also pops up in this release. In the seven-county area, 1,437 minor children or 1 percent of the population are receiving government money.

If we multiply the 13 percent figure of people in Milam County over 65 times total poulation we get about 3,000. They are included in the beneficiaries receiving these funds.

That 3,000 figure also correlates with another approximate 3,000 plus who are receiving foodstuffs from government sources in the Cameron surplus Commodities offices.

Then we begin to realize how dependent we already are on US government. The question is: How can Milam County, how can Central Texas, how can the United States continue to grant all nature of beneficiaries funds without everybody ultimately wanting to wait in line?

There is need for old-age benefits and social security payments built up by a worker over a lifetime. But how can incentive for productivity continue when we picture Uncle Sam as a cornucopia from the cradle to the grave?

We need not remind Milam Countians that they are Uncle Sam. We should remember that a cornucopia, or horn of plenty, is Greek mythology, not U. S. reality.

Johnson's Bid Fires First Gun

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN — It is more than a year until the day when the next President of the United States will be elected, but in Texas, the race is on.

From now until Nov. 8, 1960, may well be a year of the most feverish political activity the state ever has known.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn fired the starting gun by calling for an all - out campaign to win the Democratic presidential nomination for U. S. Sen. Lyndon Johnsin. Rayburn called for Johnson-for-President organizations in every county in Texas.

A campaign kick - off by the man who has often been called "Mr. Democrat" gave enormous impetus to the activities of Johnson supporters. Pro-Johnson clubs, rallies and editorials blossomed over the state. Gov. Price Daniel and the state executive committee had previously pledged support.

Speaker Rayburn sponsorship also makes exceedingly difficult the position of Texas' liberal wing Democrats who have been cool toward the senator since the convention hassles of 1956.

In 1952, Rayburn championed the liberals in their battle against a conservative party leadership working for Eisenhower. But the same group, now the Democrats of Texas Club members, will have to fly in the face of their old friend, Rayburn, if they decide on open opposition to Senator Johnson this year.

Some DOTers have pledged Johnson support. But Mrs. R. D. Randolph, leader, refused to commit herself on grounds the senator has not declared himself a candidate.

Candidate or not, Senator Johnson is whizzing around Texas for personal appearances, scheduled at the rate of more than one a day in the months ahead.

FARWELL TO BENCH

Judge John E. Hickman has announced he will retire in 1960 from his post as chief justice of the State Supreme Court.

Judge Hickman, who became a commissiiner on the high court in 1935, has served there longer than any other man in Texas history.

Noting that he is 76, the judge said he felt the time had come "to surrender the duties and responsibilities of my office to someone younger."

Two other Supreme Court justices, Joe Greenhill and Clyde E. Smith, will be up for re-election next year.

COMMITTEES FORMING

In a surge of appointive activity, Speaker Waggoner Carr named House members to serve on three of the study groups authorized for between - sessions activity.

Named to the Legislative Council, a permanent organization usually assigned a lengthy list of studies, are Reps. W. T. Oliver of Port Neches, Eligio de la Garza of Mission, H. L. Strickland of San Antonio, R. H. Cory of Victoria, R. A. Bartram of New Bransfels, Tony Korioth of Sherman, Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth, will Ehrle of Childress, W. W. Glass of Jacksonville and Richard Slack of Pecos.

House members on the Texas Commission on State and Local Tax Policy will be Reps. Frates Seeligson of San Antonio, V. L. Ramsey of Beckville and J. Gordon Bristow of Big Spring.

This group will further the study of the state's fiscal structure begun in 1957 - 58 buy the State Tax study commission. Specifically, the new group will consider such problems as whether the property tax should be abandoned or overhauled.

To the Texas Coordinated Commission for State Health and Welfare Services, Carr named Reps. W. N. Woolsey of Corpus Christi, W. E. Shaw of Forney and Max C. Smith of San Marcos.

Three senators, three private citizens and seven agency heads also are to serve on this panel to study and recommend improvements in health and welfare programs.

GAS TAX CHALLENGED

First of what will probably be many suits attacking the constitutionality of the new severance beneficiary tax on natural gas has been filed in an Austin district court.

Pipeline companies promised to fight the tax in court when it was passed by the Legislature this year.

A tax of 1.5 per cent of the value of the gas is levied on the purchaser, such as a pipeline that contracts to buy it from the producer.

A similar sort of law, the gas gathering tax passed in 1951, was knocked down by the courts.

Governor Daniel worked peristently for the new gas tax, an issue that helped keep lawmakers at loggerheads for months. He promised to help fight the suits. "Long line gas companies fought hard agalnst accepting any of the tax load," said the governor. Now, he added, some want to escape "scot free."

Funeral Services For Sharp Teacher, JP Inquest Held

Funeral services for Mrs. Byrdie Rickman, 65, were held in Ennis 2 p. m. last Thursday. Burial was in a Bardwill Cemetery.

Mrs. Rickman was found dead early Wednesday morning at her home here. Justice of Peace Luther McDonald ruled death by natural causes.

Mrs. Rickman came to the Sharp school last year from the Cuero school. She taught Latin and high school math.

Miss Mary Belle Batte and Bill Pierce attended the services. Mr. Pierce was a pallbearer.

Survivors are three sisters and two brothers; and a number of neices and nephews.

St. Anthony's PTA Holds Business Meet

The St. Anthony School Parent Teachers Club of Cameron met in regular session at the Simon George Hall in Cameron with the president, Mrs. Herman Hanel, presiding and Mrs. Felix Matula, Mrs. Monroe Marek, Mrs. H. J. Litzman and Mrs. Steve Hrozek serving as hostesses.

Mrs. David Shapiro gave a discussion on "Parents and Good Study Habits".

During the business session the president reported that it had been voted at a previous afternoon meeting for the club to buy playground equipment for the schoolyard. It was voted to work with the Cameron PTA in a drive to abolish obscene literature from the newsstands and magazine racks. A committee composed of Mrs. Herman Hanel, Mrs. Louis Matula, Mrs. George Hollas and Mrs. Harold Darby was appointed to work with the Cameron PTA in this endeavor.

Refreshemts were served by the hostesses following the meeting and program.

If You Think TV Quiz Shows Were Rigged, You Should Try Farming

Dear Editar:

Now that everybody has pretty well found out that television quiz shows were fixed, I have been looking around out here and doing some heavy thinking and have come to the conclusion that the investigating committee that brought this to light has only scratched the surface.

If you think television quiz shows are fixed, you ought to try farming.

Do you reckon farming is fixed? It has a lot of the ear - marks. For example, like a T. V. contestant you start out on a farming year feeling like you're going to hit the jackpot, you've got the answers this time straight from the experts ahead of show time, but when the time comes to cash in, it seems that the producers of the show trip you up and run in another contestant known as the middle man who winds up with the big money. Or maybe he doesn't get it, but it goes somewhere, as groceries on the shelf keep going up and groceries in the raw straight off the farm keep going down. If the middle man doesn't get it, the insects do, or the weather. Regardless of how many books they give us to take home and read, even with the pages marked, we can't find the right answers.

I wish you would contact that Congressional Investigating Committee and have it look into this farming situation.

On second thought, though, maybe they'd better not.

When people found out quiz shows were rigged, the shows collapsed. We can't have that happening to farming. Just forget I ever mentioned it.

Let's change the subject. If you think Mr. Khrushchev's claim that "he'll bury us" has the United States Diplomatic Corps upset, you ought to hear what the American Undertakers Association thinks about it.

Yours faithfully,

Bennett extension soil chemist, points out that sandy soils in lime deficient areas will require more frequent application of limestone than will clay soils.
